Basic Maintenance Helps Protect the Environment

Earth Day has come and gone, but that's no excuse to stop being green. The Car Care Council suggests you “green your routine” when it comes to your car and offers five ways you and your vehicle can help protect the environment every day.

“Basic vehicle maintenance goes a long way toward protecting the environment, and it can keep more ‘green’ in your wallet through better fuel economy,” said Rich White, executive director, Car Care Council. “Vehicle owners who do their own maintenance should remember to recycle or properly dispose of fluids and other vehicle components, including used motor oil, tires and batteries.”

Drive Green – Recognize that how you drive has a lot to do with fuel economy. Avoid sudden starts and stops and go the speed limit. Jerky and aggressive driving decreases your miles per gallon (MPG) and increases wear and tear on your vehicle. Minimize unnecessary miles by combining errands in one trip.

Get a Tune-Up – Regular tune-ups, maintenance and having clean air filters will help your car pollute less and burn less gas. With a proper tune-up, you can save 4 percent on the cost of gas and up to 40 percent by replacing a faulty oxygen sensor. Simply changing the car's air filter can improve efficiency by 10 percent.

Lighten the Load – Get the junk out of the trunk and the stuff out of your car, with the exception of emergency items such as a spare tire, flares and a first-aid kit. Extra items weigh the vehicle down and cause an increase in gas usage.

Tire Checks – According to the Car Care Council, around two billion gallons of gas each year could be saved if the tires on every American's car were properly inflated. Optimal tire pressure for your vehicle is listed in the owner's manual. Tires that are not properly inflated add rolling resistance that makes the engine work harder to move the vehicle. All of this increases fuel costs as much as three to five cents per gallon, and increases the risk of engine damage.

Gas Caps and Fill-Ups – Check your vehicle's gas cap. Approximately 17 percent of vehicles on the road have loose, damaged or missing gas caps, causing 147 million gallons of gas to vaporize every year. Topping off your gas tank when filling up your car can also release harmful vapors into the environment.

More information about environmental awareness is included in the popular digital Car Care Guide that can be easily accessed through the council's Web site at www.carcare.org/car-care-guide.

The Car Care Council is the source of information for the "Be Car Care Aware" consumer education campaign promoting the benefits of regular vehicle care, maintenance and repair to consumers. For more information, visit www.carcare.org.

Day at Bruce's fun for all

If you didn't spend April 17 in DeLisle, MS, at Bruce Greenwell's place, you really missed out on something. Bruce and the lovely Loretta again hosted a wonderful event that was enjoyed by many club members, friends, family, neighbors and some guy with a bucket. The chamber of commerce day was made better with great eats, outstanding tunes from the band, ISIS, and just plain, good old fashioned community. Most all of Bruce's guests brought their hot rods, making the day a mini show in and of itself. Of course, a few of us couldn't resist doing a little business club business, so take a look at the sound trailer during the Southern Hospitality show and see if you notice the yet another improvement.

David has found an alternative to high gas prices. He says the '66 runs great on this type of ethanol!

ISIS kept us entertained all afternoon.

Bruce and his 'harem.'
